This reception is an opportunity for arbitrators and advocates to get together and view this historic documentary made by two-time Emmy winner Carol M. Rosenbaum.

In addition to the origins of labor arbitration, the video features the insight, anecdotes, and advice of distinguished arbitrators who served at defining moments in the history of labor relations and dispute resolution.

The documentary was made possible by the generous donations of the Fellows of The College of Labor and Employment Lawyers and their firms, as well as a grant from the National Academy of Arbitrators' Research and Education Foundation.
